Father's Corner... From the Vatican News Letter 8/22/2025.

The Apostolic Library and the Apostolic Archive (Part 1/3)

Vatican Apostolic Library and the Vatican Apostolic Archive are institutions that combine tradition and innovation. The Library has the task of collecting and preserving a rich heritage and making it avail-abe to scholars. The Archives carry out their specific task of safeguarding the acts and documents concerning the government of the Church. By Amedeo Lomonaco.

The institutional distinction between the Library, an "institution of conservation and research," and the Archives, which carries out an activity of "intellectual charity" because it shares its heritage with scholars from all over the world, dates back to 1600, with Paul V.

Archbishop Giovanni Cesare Pagazzi is the Archivist and Librarian of the Holy Roman Catholic Church. A section of the Vatican Apostolic Library. (©2024 Biblioteca Apostolica Vaticana) Vatican Apostolic Library

The Vatican Apostolic Library, born in the heart of the Renaissance, is an institution that is equipped to face contemporary challenges. In the 15th century, Nicholas V. decided that Latin, Greek, and Hebrew manuscripts held by the Vatican should be open for consultation and reading by scholars. On 15 June 1475, during the pontificate of Sixtus IV, the Bull Ad decoren militantis Ecclesiae ("For the adornment of the Church militant") was issued.

The distinctive features and purposes of the Vatican Apostolic Library have, since its origins, been linked to an inestimable heritage - as Paul VI recalled in 1975 - to be made available "to scholars in the various stages of consultation, reading, comparison, and final synthesis." This is not just a matter of physically opening rooms or opening texts, but above all, as Pope Paul VI emphasized of a "cultural openness" that can be fostered by preserving and transmitting knowledge.

Father Paul Wand'

Question of the Week: Why are the formulas of faith (the Creeds) important? They are important because they permit one to express, assimilate, celebrate and share together with others the truths of the faith through a common language. The Church is made up of people who have diverse languages, cultures, and rites, and who nonetheless profess with a united voice the one true faith that was received from the one Lord and that was passed on by the one Apostolic Tradition. We, the Church, confess one God alone, Father, Son, and Holy Spirit, and points to one way of salvation. We believe with one heart and soul all that is contained in the Word of God, handed down or written, and which is proposed by the Church as divinely revealed.
